

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A system and method for selectable area laser treatment of a substrate, such as thin film transistors, the system including a holder holding a substrate in proximity to reactant, and laser beams each addressing independently selectable mutually set apart locations on the substrate to induce a reaction between the substrate and the reactant.